

The "101 Alternatives to the Chalkboard"

2010 Educators' Conference

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 15, 16, 17
At YMCA Camp Kern (32 miles northeast of Cincinnati)

Call for Presenters

We are seeking session leaders for this years' event

The "101" Conference is a weekend outdoor education workshop experience designed to inspire teachers and outdoor educators with creative and fun ways to provide exciting learning experiences.

We are looking for presenters to offer 90 minute long group sessions. Session times are available throughout the day on Saturday October 16th or on Sunday morning October 17th. Presenters are encouraged to offer active, hands-on experiences that would be of interest and use to both classroom and outdoor educators. Areas of interest include: natural history, art, teambuilding, environmental issues, technology, health, history, education, and more.

Camp Kern has 485 acres filled with many teaching resources (ponds, forest, prairie, log cabin, ravines, the Little Miami River, ropes course, climbing walls, wetland, and more). Presenters are encouraged to take full advantage of what we have.

Session presenters are welcome to attend the entire conference at no charge.

If you have any interest in presenting during one of our sessions or if you have any questions, contact Dave Moran at YMCA Camp Kern.
